Benediction for Justice for the Marginalized

May the Spirit of Justice go before us—
unsettling the comfortable,
and comforting the unheard.

May your heart remain soft to the cries of the oppressed,
your ears open to stories long silenced,
and your hands ready to build a world more just.

Go now with courage:
to speak when silence protects power,
to stand when standing costs something,
and to walk alongside the ones the world too often overlooks.

May love be your guide,
truth be your compass,
and justice be the path beneath your feet.

Go in peace—but not in complacency.
Go in strength—and in solidarity.
Amen.
